

Five

Correl Roush

June 4, 2016

These past five years, we've built a home together. A place where we feel happy, where we get to relax and be ourselves together. I look forward to coming home to you every single day. No matter how frustrat- ing my time away from you might have been, I know that your smile will fix everything. Making each other happy feels so effortless and so rewarding — we belong together. Not everything is easy, but you give me the strength I need to get through it. Whenever I'm down, you make me happy again. If I'm having a tough time, you give me support. All I ever need to do is see your face, and I know I can handle anything. I want nothing more than to be able to do all of that for you. We've been through a lot together, and it's been tough, but now we're finally getting the family we've always wanted! I'm so excited, and seeing the same excitement and relief in your eyes brings me more joy than I've ever felt before. I feel like we can achieve anything to- gether. I'm looking forward to watching you become the wonderful, loving mother I know you'll be.
I love you, Jen, always and forever.
